Architecture Personal Statement Examples | Studential.com Architecture Personal Statement 8 I have travelled frequently and each journey has been enlightening in shaping my interest in Architecture and exposing me to various types of design, using a range of materials depending on the environment. I have observed that each place has its own definition of architecture, whether it is a Sky Scrapper in London or a hurricane resistant residence in St. Kitts ... Architecture Personal Statements We hope our collection of UCAS Architecture personal statements provides inspiration for writing your own. Please do not plagiarise them in any way, or UCAS will penalise your application. Luckily, UCAS have two very helpful resources which you can print off to get you started: personal statement mindmap and personal statement timeline. These two things aren't exactly the law and I don't think the time scales are awfully necessary but they give you an idea of what you should include and what processes you should go through to really iron out any creases. Admissions tutors often tell us that there is no such thing as a model statement and architecture is a case in point. For example, tutors at University College London (UCL) want you to write what YOU find interesting. Entry requirements. A levels – To get on to a related degree, you will usually need a minimum of two A levels, with three A levels and A/B grades required for the most popular courses. In addition, you normally require five GCSEs at grade C or above, including maths and English. Planning and landscape architecture degrees do not normally require specific A level subjects. Architecture – 2013 (Bath, Cambridge Interview, Edinburgh, Ucl, Westminster) As part of a two week work experience at a London based architectural firm, I was around for the design phase of one of their French projects.
