Personal construct theory or personal construct psychology (PCP) is a theory of personality and cognition developed by the American psychologist George Kelly in the 1950s. From the theory, Kelly derived a psychotherapy approach and also a technique called the repertory grid interview that helped his patients to analyze their own constructs (schemas or ways of seeing the world) with minimal ...Recently, the psychological construct mindfulness has received a great deal of attention. The majority of research has focused on clinical studies to evaluate the efficacy of mindfulness-based interventions.2015 International Conference on Logistics, Informatics and Service Sciences (LISS) Barcelona, Spain 2015 International Conference on Logistics, Informatics and Service Sciences (LISS) IEEE , (2015).978-1-4799-1891-1 Hui Cheng Emotional intelligence and leadership effectiveness in organizations of PR China: A cultural explanation, (2015).In psychology, constructivism refers to many schools of thought that, though extraordinarily different in their techniques (applied in fields such as education and psychotherapy), are all connected by a common critique of previous standard approaches, and by shared assumptions about the active constructive nature of human knowledge.In particular, the critique is aimed at the "associationist ...
